Eighteenth Sunday in Ordinary TimeAugust 5, 2018

Depending on the individual, the congregation, or even the denominational tradition, knowing God can sometimes be reduced to an intellectual exercise. This text tells us that the knowledge of God is connected to an experience of God, and especially experiencing God's provision. Knowing God is also expressed in obeying God, an act that can cycle back to a deeper knowledge of God.

The topic of knowing, experiencing and obeying God in this account is set within the story of the Israelites' "murmuring" against Moses and Aaron in the wilderness and God's provision of quail and manna. As is typical for Hebrew syntax, the verb begins the verse, setting the stage for what will happen, "and they murmured." This word occurs only in the wilderness wandering texts of Exodus 15:1-17, Numbers 14, 16-17 and Joshua 9:18. It can also be translated as "grumble," or "complain against."

Though the object of their complaint is Moses and Aaron, their human leaders, in verses 6-8 (which are not in the lectionary reading) Moses acknowledges that they are really complaining against God. It is important to remember that these texts -- wherein the Israelites murmur -- are not merely critiques of people who voice their concerns to God. The Psalms are full of laments, which list out complaints to, and even about, God in very specific ways. Additionally, the content of the people's murmuring, at this point, is legitimate; they are hungry and need food. Thus, the problem is not that the people murmur; the problem is that they do not believe.

God responds to the people's murmuring with the promise that bread will be rained from heaven -- a remarkable, direct response to their need. But verse four also lets us know that with the gift of bread comes a test. God will see if the people will obey God's instruction or not -- instructions which include the command to only gather as much as they need to eat (verse 16) and not to leave any for the next day (verses 19-20).

Of course, they do not obey, and their lack of obedience tests the patience of both Moses and God. But the disobedience is not only stubbornness or recalcitrance; they do not know God enough to trust God. This problem is foreshadowed in their song of praise from the previous chapter. They acknowledged that the Lord is a God like no other (Exodus 15:11). They do not fully understand who the Lord is or what God is able to do. Even if they remember that God is their deliverer, they have not yet experienced again and again that God is also their provider.

We do not have to wait at all for the fulfillment of God's promise of bread and meat, made in verse 12, for verse 13 explains that quail comes in the evening and manna comes with the dew of the morning. Verse 14 gives a brief description of the manna, comparing it to frost. Its name is related to the Israelites' question, "What is it?" or mān hū' in Hebrew. Moses responds to their confused surprise by spelling out that it is God's promised gift of bread.

Numbers 11 also tells about God providing manna and quail to the Israelites in the wilderness, but, in that chapter, the gift of food is bracketed by stories about God's anger with, and judgment against, the Israelites (Numbers 11:1-3, 33-35). Psalm 78:30-31 describes the occasion in Numbers vividly: "But before they had satisfied their craving, while the food was still in their mouths, the anger of God rose against them and he killed the strongest of them and laid low the flower of Israel."

In this chapter and in the lectionary's selection of verses, the main point is that God provides food in the wilderness in the form of bread from heaven. Of course, in the gospel reading from John, Jesus makes it clear that the manna from heaven in the wilderness is not the true bread from heaven that gives life to the world. Instead, Jesus Himself is the bread of life, and as He identifies Himself as that bread, He promises that whoever comes to Him will not go hungry (John 6:35). Many see Jesus spiritualizing the food from the Old Testament, but perhaps His promise connects with the Exodus text more directly, by affirming that knowledge of God is connected to the way God provides for specific needs.

NET MINISTRIES: HOME FOR MISSIONARIES

Who?

What?

Where?

NET Ministries is beginning our training season once again. Missionaries from all over the country (and World) will be arriving within weeks. Starting September 8 through 22, our missionaries are in need of housing, in and around West St. Paul. This is an amazing opportunity to open your home to young men and women who have dedicated a year of their life to the Lord. If this is something you can do, or if you know of someone who can, please email Joe Rynda at joerynda@netusa.org or call at 651-450-6833.

MISSION TRIP TO UGANDA JUNE 2019

We will be making a return visit to St. Anthony's parish in Migyera, Uganda, to reconnect with our brothers and sisters in Uganda and do some mission work. The trip is planned for June 6 through 20 of 2019. While there, we will work at the schools where our sponsored children attend, meet with sponsored families and do some work for them, as well as doing some medical mission work, among other things. If you are interested in joining us, or if you have questions, please call Laurie Reding at (612)419-1709 or email her at lreding1@aol.com. Space is limited to 15 people.

ADORATION CHAPEL

If you are uncertain about what an hour in our chapel might mean for you, consider what some of our adorers have to say about their very special time with Jesus. Over the next several weeks, we will be sharing some of their comments with you.

There are many spectacular testimonials witnessing to the power of Adoration. My testimonial, however, is kind of "quiet. . ." It is one of companionship with Jesus and of slow, consistent transformation. It is often said that we soak in some of the qualities of the people we spend time with. When my adult children are all together, talking about current happenings in their lives, they sometimes jokingly roll their eyes and say, "Ugh! I'm turning into Dad (or Mom)!" That's not surprising, since we've spent 18+ years together, and some of my wife and I have "rubbed off" on them. The same thing happens when I spend time in Adoration—I experience a little bit of Jesus rubbing off on me. Like everyone, I struggle with things that I can't easily and automatically control and make go away—things like pride, performance orientation, judgementalism, poor self-image, certain resentments and fears, and so on. But, when I have companionship with Jesus in Adoration, I feel that the control that these things exert over my life steadily lessen, little by little. Although I have a long, long way to go, sitting in the stillness with Jesus in Adoration gradually changes me—I experience Jesus soaking into my being, and I feel like I leave the Chapel a different man than when I went in.
