Reflections from our Youth Coordinator

Last weekend, during all the Masses, our choir lead us in a beautiful praise and worship song called “The Heart of Worship” by Matt Redman. In that song, we are called to make sure that when we come to worship our God, that we are focused on Him and not allowing anything to get in the way. The song implores us to be sure that when we come to worship our Lord, we are opening our heart to him and are fully attentive in our worship. As the chorus says, we should make sure that “It’s all about you/It’s all about you, Jesus.”

It strikes me that this is a great song for us to use as reflection during Lent as well. As we prepare ourselves for Easter, are we approaching our Lenten preparation prayerfully and reverently, or are we checking things off of a list: things that we’re ‘supposed to do’ because we’re Catholic?

One of the most common conversations that many of us Catholics have during Lent, is with people (non-Catholics, but let’s be honest, also a lot of other Catholics) about the value of giving up meat on Friday. The argument that I hear from a lot of people who don’t do it is, “Do you think God really cares if I’m eating meat or not?” The problem is that approach misses the entire point of why we are giving up meat.

The beginning of the chorus of “The Heart of Worship” perfectly expresses how we should be approaching our fasting (or any other preparations for Easter) during Lent.

I'll bring You more than a song,
for a song in itself
is not what You have required.
You search much deeper within,
through the way things appear,
You're looking into my heart.

‘The song’ in this case is abstaining from meat. To just go through the motions, or check something off the list, is not what God requires or asks of us. He is looking into our heart, “through the way things appear,” desperately longing to be closer to us. This is the mistake that we make when we ask if God cares that we’re eating meat or not; we are focusing too much on whether we eat meat or not, and not on God and our relationship with him. The act of abstaining from meat is itself a prayer; something we can offer to God out of love and reverence. It is a way that we can open our heart to him and bring ourselves into a deeper relationship with him.

If we are standing in line at a restaurant trying to decide whether to order the fish sandwich or just get a cheeseburger, and the only thing we’re trying to decide is whether God cares which one we eat, then we’ve already missed the point. If we order the fish sandwich purely out of guilt just because we’re supposed to, then we’re missing an opportunity. He wants us to bring him more than just a meatless Friday, for (if I may paraphrase) a meatless Friday in itself is not what he has required. He wants us to bring him ourselves. He wants us to be standing in line at that restaurant and instead of ordering fish out of guilt and frustration, he wants us to engage in prayer, and open up a line of communication with him right at that moment. He wants us to eat the fish because it can be an intentional act of prayer and sacrifice. And we are intentional about our sacrifices and our prayer, as opposed to robotic actions done without thought, we are naturally brought closer to Him.

What if every time we were eating a meal on a Friday in Lent, as part of our grace before that meal, we prayed to God to open our heart to him, and we took just two minutes to look into our own hearts and souls and ask him to reshape us where needed, and give us strength to be the person that He made us to be? What if we carried this over to every meal? That would truly be a way for us to return to the heart of what it means to fast during Lent.

Of course, this approach can be applied to all aspects of our faith. What is our approach/attitude towards confession? Are we going simply to check it off the list? Or are we approaching it as a way to grow closer to Jesus? When we receive the Eucharist at Mass, as we process up are we focusing on being humble before Christ, and the aspects in our life where the Precious Body and Blood can strengthen and sustain us; or is our mind wandering?

Let’s use these last few weeks of Lent to refocus ourselves on getting back to the heart of preparing for Easter; to the Heart of Jesus. Let’s be very intentional about our prayer, fasting and almsgiving so that we may, as Father Steven likes to say, experience an Easter filled with joy (and sweet-tasting chocolate).

2-4 p.m., Heritage Center

By His life and teaching, Jesus not only reveals the Father's merciful heart, but more wonderfully still, through the gift of the sacrament of confession and our Lenten observances of prayer, fasting and almsgiving, Jesus takes us more deeply into the Father's heart, that inexhaustible source of His life and strength, of His love, joy, and peace.

Holy Land Collection on Good Friday

As Holy Week nears, we are reminded of all the special places in the Holy Land that were significant in the life of Jesus. On Good Friday, a special Holy Land collection is taken up in all Catholic parishes to support the sacred sites and activities supporting them. As Pope Paul VI stated, this collection is "not only for the Holy Places but above all for those pastoral, charitable, educational, and social works which the Church supports in the Holy Land for the welfare of their Christian brethren and of the local communities." This effort enables those visiting and living in the Holy Land to experience their spiritual "birthplace" and enhance their faith.

A "Beary" Special Thank You Note

I want to say thank to the person who donated the jar of Ragu spaghetti sauce to the recent food shelf drive. When I opened that jar, I found the greatest treasure of all—your message of support and hope for the future.

I went to the food shelf because I desperately needed food for my kids, but what I carried home in those bags was so much more than just calories and nutrition. Your donated food told me I had not been forgotten and was not unloved. Your message of kindness and understanding popped right out of that jar you donated. It was strong and spicy and delicious.

I cried when I was at Neighbors, Inc. that day. I was embarrassed and frustrated. It had never been in my life plans to end up there. I am crying now as I write this because I am so grateful to you for your donation. Your message has been received and it will not be forgotten. It has remained with me even after the spaghetti sauce has been consumed and the jar recycled. It is a treasure I keep locked up in my heart. It is precious and golden to me. Thank you!

Special grocery bags will be available as you leave Mass. Please consider filling a bag with your donations and returning it to St. Peter's by March 29. Monetary donations are also encouraged. Each dollar donated is equivalent to one pound of food. You may place your monetary donation in the collection basket at Mass. Address the envelope to Neighbors, Inc.

We delivered 507 pounds of food to Neighbors, Inc. so far this month. We hope to get over 3,000 pounds by the end of March. Thank you for your donations so far!

"Being unwanted, unloved, uncared for, forgotten by everybody, I think that is a much greater poverty than hunger, a much greater poverty than the person who has nothing to eat."
